

The International Fertiliser Society
Technical Conference

The IFS London Conference
and AGM

Adapting to new challenges

23-24 June 2015

The Geological Society, Burlington House,
Piccadilly, London W1J 0BD

The International Fertiliser Society's 2015 Technical Conference and AGM, at The Geological Society, London, will take place over two days (23rd & 24th June). This non-residential conference is for all who are involved in the sourcing, production and handling of fertilisers and their constituent materials. There will be a varied selection of excellent presentations, supported by full written papers.

Delegates will also benefit from excellent networking opportunities.

The Conference Dinner will again be held in the nearby Naval Club, a venue that has provided us with many enjoyable evenings.

Draft title	Presenter
Review of methods for phosphorus recovery and re-cycling from municipal waste streams.	Christian Kabbe, Berlin Water, Germany
Recovery of nutrients from waste water streams in fertiliser plants	Nicolai Arion, Arionex, Switzerland
Recovery of phosphate as struvite from waste-water streams	Philip Abrary, Ostara, Canada
Uranium extraction from phosphoric acid	Marc Collin, Prayon Technologies S.A., Belgium

The Conference.

The Society is again using the the Geological Society in Piccadilly, the traditional central London venue for our technical events. The timings for this two day Conference have been arranged to suit those travelling some distance, and being in London provides delegates with ample choice of hotel accommodation.

Following on from the success of last year, the Conference Dinner will again be held in the fine dining room of The Naval Club in nearby Mayfair, with the price for this Dinner being inclusive of wines. There is however limited seating capacity and places at the Dinner will be allocated in order of registration for the Conference.

During the event time will be provided for the authors to address their subject in some depth, and also for delegates and speakers to discuss the issues and technicalities raised. Society events are attended by Members and others from a wide range of disciplines and from many countries, and present an excellent opportunity to make new contacts and to renew old acquaintances. Printed Proceedings will be available, together with a delegate list.

Non-members welcome.

Non-members are welcome as guests of the Society, although at a higher registration fee. However non-members may wish to join the Society in order to take advantage of the Member's rate. The membership subscription is GB£ 80.00 per calendar year, with Members having access to current Conference Proceedings as PDF files on the Society website. Members also have special rate registration for the Conference in Cambridge on 10-11 December 2015 and access to the Proceedings from that Conference.

How to find the Geological Society.

The Geological Society auditorium is in Burlington House, Piccadilly, London, and there is access directly from Piccadilly. It is situated almost opposite Fortnum and Mason's shop and Duke Street, half way between the Piccadilly Circus and Green Park Underground stations and within easy walking distance from both. There will be a notice on the door.

Register now.

Please return the Registration Form as soon as possible, especially if you want to attend the Conference Dinner, making sure that it reaches the offices of the Society:

NOT LATER THAN MONDAY 15th June 2015.
